

The Humanities Program proudly presents...

“Women, Weaving, Work and Woes: Ancient and Medieval Literary Perspectives in Human Experience”

Public Lecture: March 31st at 7:00 PM
Mallot Room (Kansas Union)

AND

“A Conversation with Andromache Karanika”

April 1 10:00- 11:30 A.M. Hall Center for the Humanities
(open to Faculty and Students)

Andromache Karanika
Associate Professor, Classics,
University of California, Irvine.
Author of *Voices at Work: Women,
Performance and Labor in Ancient Greece* (Johns Hopkins UP, 2014).

Co-Sponsors: The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Hall Center for the Humanities, Ermal Garinger Academic Resource Center, Department of Spanish and Portuguese, and the Jewish Studies Program.